. . Hello, I'm here with a brand new, update to the PixelCrafts store. I've added many new items and many new items have been added to the store. I have also added some new features to the store. First of all, I have added a new category called "PixelCrafts Pixel Art Items". This category has a wide variety of items in it. Items that I have made, items that are currently for sale, and even items that I do not make anymore. Items that are being sold in this category will have a tag in the corner that says "PixelCrafts Pixel Art". Also, I have added the ability for items that are currently in the store to have the tag "PixelCrafts Pixel Art" automatically applied to them when the store is updated. Items that are in the store will not have this tag applied to them. I've also added an automatic update feature that will automatically update items that are in the store, with the "PixelCrafts Pixel Art" tag. I have also added the ability for stores that I have linked with to be able to add items to the store as well. So now stores like PixelPalace.com, The Pixel Gallery, and Pixel Crafts can all add items to the PixelCrafts store as well. I've also made some improvements to the store. The store will now update more frequently than before. I've also made the store easier to navigate with a new "Store Categories" page. You can access the store categories by clicking on the "Store Categories" page from the store navigation menu. You can also search the store for items that are for sale using the search bar on the store. I have also added the ability for stores to link with each other and exchange items between stores. This is for stores that do not have a physical store location. So now you can sell your items at PixelPalace.com and then you can purchase items from PixelPalace.com at your local store. You can also buy items at your local store and then sell them at PixelPalace.com. Now, I will go through the items in the store. You will find a lot of new items in the store. First, we have some items that are currently for sale. These items will have the tag "PixelCraft 82157476af"
